SCOPE AND PURPOSE

With recent stock market losses in the billions of dollars, there has been a 40% increase in securities arbitration filings. At this special six-hour telecast, viewers will learn the basics of securities arbitration and how to represent the investor and the broker. An outstanding faculty of practitioners, experts, and arbitrators will review the entire process, sharing their insights and experience on how to effectively represent clients in arbitration.

Featured speakers include the chief administrators at the NASD and the New York Stock Exchange, who will explain how to file an arbitration claim and how these claims are administered.

Topics to be covered include:

- Evaluating the claim before accepting the client
- How to file a Statement of Claim
- Preparing for and conducting the arbitration
- Preparing for a negotiated resolution
- Representing a brokerage firm or broker
- Use of experts
- Calculating damages
- Recovery of fees and expenses
- Punitive damages
- Appeal possibilities
